St George's for the Lausanne boulderer what the Lindental for the Bernese bouldering is: The area for the evening to still pick up quickly after work "big arms". The overhanging rock formation houses some extremely serious sport climbing routes and a variety of Straight up`s and bouldering traverses the foot of the wall. Especially with the traverses the bar or the length of the trusses has getopt regularly. François Nicole, Fred Rouhling and especially Reto Hartmann increased the lengths of the beams in an "internal competition" to almost absurd combinations ...

Interestingly, the area is ideal for bouldering, which do not want the climbing gym especially in bad weather or in winter . Especially in the winter you will find on this sunny rock formation often best conditions.

How public transport:

Take the train to Lausanne to roll over. From here the bus to "St. George Village" (Travel time from roll 27 minutes). From the station, follow the road towards Gimel slightly downhill to the workshop.

directly to this online - the SBB timetable .

Directions By car:

On the motorway Lausanne - Geneva to exit "Aubonne" (From the opposite direction, exit "role"). Now, more and follow the signs until after Gimmel and continue towards St George. Just before St George is located in a prominent left-hander a workshop. Here you can park on the side.

Location:

Swiss National Map 1:25,000: Blade 1241 Marchairuz

Coordinates: 510 000/152 500

Approach:

From the parking lot at the workshop over to the already highly visible wall. From the car park 2 minutes.

Climate:

South exponated wall. During the winter and spring months, very sunny. In the summer until late afternoon shade. Many wall areas remain dry even in the rain, but when the water pushes out after very heavy rains or thaw from the inside of the wall, then some wall sections but also stay wet longer.

Character of the climbing:

Most vertical to slightly overhanging face climbing on ledges and holes in the left and middle wall portion. On the right wall part dominates at very athletic Boulderei huge part handles.

Floor area:

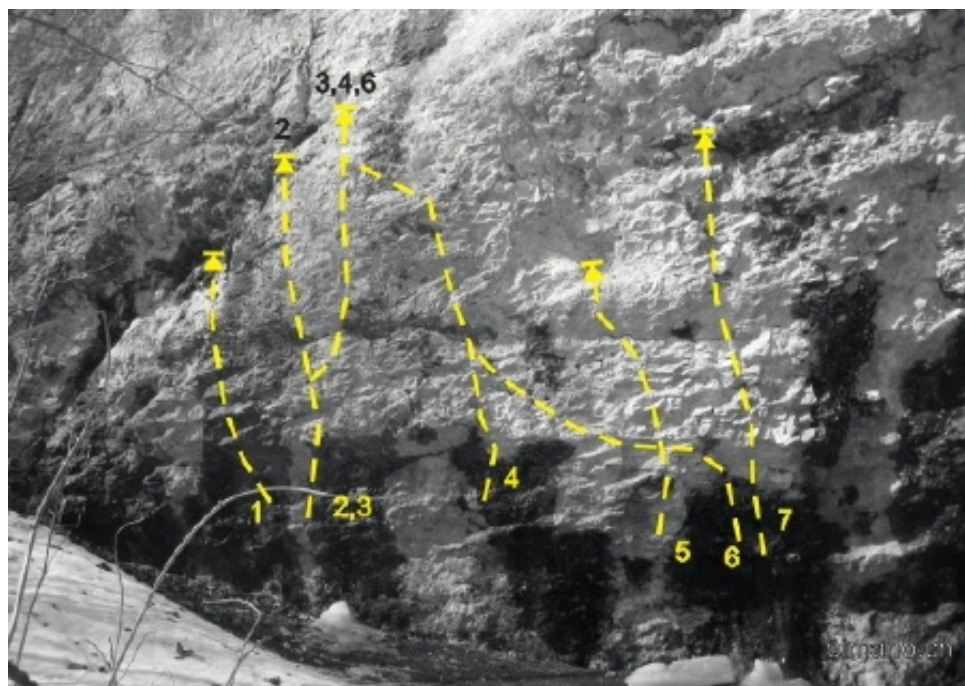

Plane forest floor and mostly very good descents.

Children:

Adapted for small children, but the climb is not accessible to prams and the floor area extremely dusty.

Special:

There are some mattresses and a ladder "check out" to the present.
cleaned well before the bouldering shoes, so that the initial steps shall suffer even more!
There are also some very serious sport climbing routes.
Boulder SUP Some trusses are defined.
